Background and reasons

Tethys Oil has generated significant cash flows and the Company's financial position is strong. It is therefore the view of the Board that there is room for additional cash distribution to the shareholders.

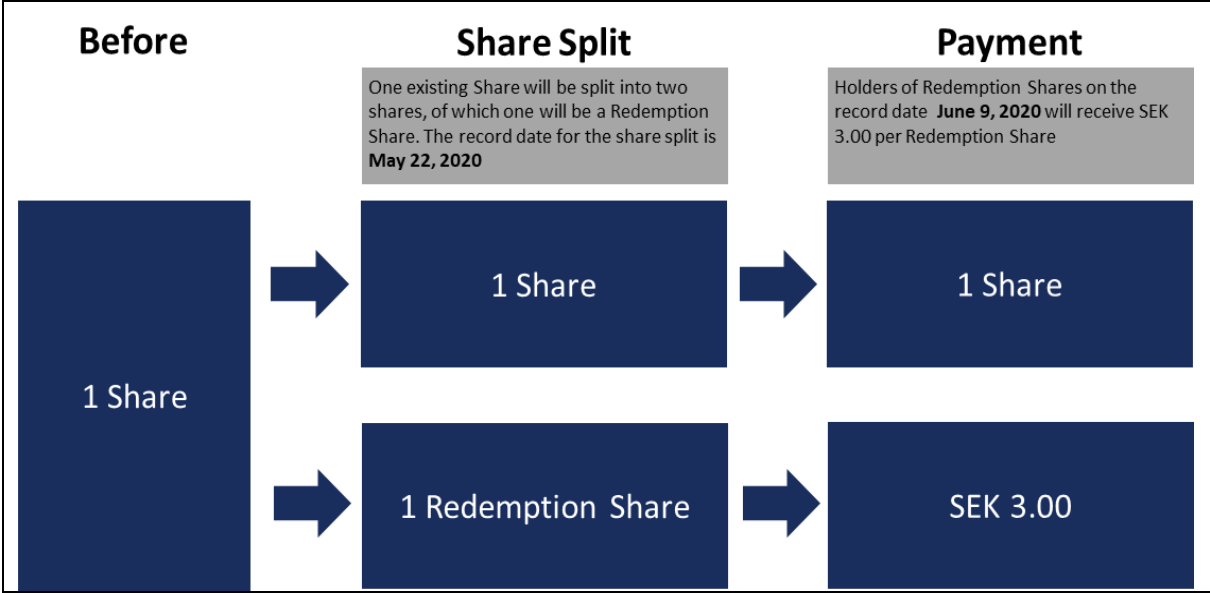

In regards thereof, the Board has decided to propose to the AGM to approve of a cash dividend of SEK two (2.00) per Share to be distributed following the AGM as well as a mandatory share redemption procedure, whereby every Share is split into one ordinary Share and one Redemption Share. The Redemption Share will be automatically redeemed at SEK three (3.00) per Redemption Share. This corresponds to a total distribution to shareholders of SEK five (5.00) per Share amounting to approximately SEK 165.3 million in total.

The share redemption and dividend are subject to approval at the AGM, which will be held on May 13, 2020. Further information regarding the Board's proposal will be presented in the notice of the AGM, the Company's annual report, the Board's complete proposal and any documents held available for the shareholders in connection with the AGM.

Description of the share split and redemption procedure

It is proposed to the AGM on May 13, 2020 to resolve on a share split and mandatory share redemption in accordance with the Board's proposal. In brief, the proposal entails one existing Share to be split into two, of which one will be a so-called Redemption Share. Each Redemption Share will automatically be redeemed for a cash payment of SEK three (3.00). After the redemption procedure, each shareholder will own the same number of Shares as before. The Shares will however receive a new ISIN-code (SE0014399424) in connection with the share split.

Receipt of Redemption Shares

The last day of trading in the Share including the right to receive Redemption Shares is May 19, 2020. The record date for the share split and receipt of Redemption Shares is May 22, 2020. There is no action required on the part of the shareholder in order to receive Redemption Shares. Shareholders who do not wish to receive any Redemption Shares must sell their Shares no later than May 19, 2020.

Trading in Redemption Shares

Trading in Redemption Shares (ISIN-code SE0014399432) is expected to take place on Nasdaq Stockholm during the period May 25 –June 5, 2020. All banks and other securities companies with the necessary permits can assist with the buying and selling of Redemption Shares. Shareholders who do not wish to receive the redemption settlement of SEK three (3.00) must sell their Redemption Shares no later than June 5, 2020.

Payment of redemption settlement

The record date for payment of the redemption settlement is June 9, 2020. A redemption settlement of SEK three (3.00) in cash consideration for each Redemption Share will be paid on or about June 12, 2020. Payment will be effected automatically via Euroclear to the Redemption Shareholder's yield account.

Holding of Shares registered in the name of a nominee

Shareholders registered in the name of a nominee will not receive any notification from Euroclear. Information about the redemption procedure will instead be provided by the nominee.

Preconditions for the redemption procedure

The share split and redemption procedure requires to be resolved by the AGM in accordance with the Board's proposal of a split of existing Shares (so-called share split) and reduction of shareholders' equity to be distributed to the Company's shareholders through the redemption of Redemption Shares. It is further presupposed that the AGM, in connection with the above, resolves on a bonus issue in accordance with the Board's proposal.

Indicative financial effects of the redemption procedure

As a result of the proposed distribution of assets by way of dividend payment and the mandatory redemption procedure, the total shareholders' equity in the Company will decrease by approximately SEK 165.3 million (USD 16.3 million). The assets to be distributed to the shareholders consist of cash held on account by the Company, which consequently will decrease by an equal amount. The below pro forma balance sheet shows the indicative financial effects of the two cash distributions as per December 31, 2019.

Certain Swedish Tax Considerations

The following summary of certain tax considerations that may arise as a result of the proposed split and redemption is based on current Swedish tax legislation and is intended only as general information for shareholders in Tethys Oil who are resident in Sweden for tax purposes, unless otherwise indicated. The information is limited and general in nature. This description does not deal comprehensively with all tax consequences that may occur for shareholders. For instance, it does not cover the specific rules concerning so called qualified shares in closely held companies (Sw. fåmansföretag), shares held through a life insurance (Sw. kapitalförsäkring) or shares held by a partnership or that constitute current assets in a business operation. Furthermore, it does not cover the specific rules concerning tax exempt capital gains (including non-deductible capital losses). Special tax consequences that are not described below may also apply for certain categories of taxpayers, including investment companies, mutual funds, insurance companies and persons who are not resident or domiciled in Sweden. Each shareholder is recommended to consult a tax adviser for information with respect to the special tax consequences that may arise in each individual case, including the applicability and effect of foreign income tax rules, provisions contained in double taxation treaties and other rules, which may be applicable.

Receipt of Redemption Shares and allocation of the cost basis

Receipt of Redemption Shares in connection with a split does not trigger taxation. Instead, the cost basis for the original Shares in Tethys Oil immediately prior to the split shall be allocated between the Redemption Shares and the remaining Shares in Tethys Oil on the market values in the separation of the Redemption Shares. Tethys Oil intends to apply for a general recommendation (Sw. allmänna råd) with the Tax Agency (Sw. Skatteverket) on how the cost basis should be allocated¹. See example below "Costs basis for Redemption Shares – Example".

Redemption and sale of Redemption Shares

Individual shareholders

Individual shareholders are taxed as capital income for the capital gain incurred in connection with a sale or redemption of listed shares. Tax is normally levied with 30 per cent on the capital gain.

A capital gain or loss is calculated as the difference between the sales proceeds (sale or redemption proceeds), after deducting sales costs, and the cost basis. The cost basis for all shares of the same class and type (Sw. samma slag och sort) is aggregated and calculated jointly by applying an average cost method (Sw. genomsnittsmetoden). When applying the average cost method, shares of different classes in the same company does not constitute shares of the same class and type. Alternatively, in the case of a sale of listed shares, the so called standardized method (Sw. schablonmetoden) may be used. Under this method, the cost basis is deemed to be equal to 20 per cent of the sales proceeds (in a sale or redemption) after deduction of sales costs.

The cost basis for Redemption Shares received in the split is calculated in accordance with the allocation of the cost basis described above under "Receipt of Redemption Shares and allocation of the cost basis". For Redemption Shares acquired on the market, the costs basis equals the actual acquisition cost for the Redemption Shares. The cost basis for all Redemption Shares of the same class and type is aggregated and calculated jointly by applying the average cost method. It should be noted that the Redemption Shares are not considered to be of the same class and type as the remaining Shares in Tethys Oil. For listed Redemption Shares the costs basis may alternatively be set to 20 per cent of the sales proceeds after deduction of sales costs in accordance with the standardized method.

Capital losses incurred from the sale of shares in a listed company and other listed securities taxed as shares can be fully offset against capital gains occurring in the same year from the sale of shares in listed securities (with the exception of shares in Swedish investment funds holding only Swedish receivables, known as Swedish fixed income funds). Capital losses that have not been offset against capital gains are deductible to 70 per cent against other capital income.

In case of a net capital loss, such loss may be used for tax reduction on earned income tax as well as central government and municipal property taxes. Tax reduction is granted with 30 per cent of capital loss up to SEK 100,000 and 21 per cent of any loss exceeding SEK 100,000. An excess net loss cannot be carried forward to future fiscal years.

Investment savings accounts

Individual shareholders and estates from individual shareholders which own shares via so called investment savings accounts are not taxable for capital gains upon divestment of such shares. Capital losses on such shares are not tax-deductible. Instead a taxable standardized income should be reported on this type of holding, which is calculated by taking a capital basis multiplied with the Government lending rate at the end of November the previous calendar year increased with one percent point. However, the minimum standardized income is 1.25 per cent of the capital base. The above applies whether or not the outcome of the holding is a gain or loss. The standardized income is taxed as capital income for which the tax is determined and paid per year.

Taxation of dividends

Individual shareholders are taxed for dividends on listed shares as capital income at a rate of 30 per cent. For individual shareholders resident in Sweden preliminary tax at a rate of 30 per cent is normally withheld. The preliminary tax is withheld by Euroclear, or in case of nominee registered shares, by the Swedish nominee.

Corporate shareholders

All income of limited liability companies, including capital income and dividends, are taxed as business income at a tax rate of 21.4 per cent (income year 2020). Capital gains and losses are calculated in the same manner as for individuals (described above under "Redemption and sale of Redemption Shares", "Individual Shareholders").

Deductible capital losses from the sale of shares and other securities taxed as shares may only be offset against taxable capital gains deriving from shares and other securities taxed as shares. If a capital loss assignable to shares or other securities cannot be deducted by the company incurring the loss, such loss may be offset against taxable capital gains assignable to shares and securities in another company in the same corporate group if a right to exchange group contributions exists between the companies and both companies request this for a year which has the same filing date. A capital loss on shares or other securities taxed as shares can, to the extent it is not deductible one year, be carried forward (in the limited liability company incurring the loss) and used to offset taxable gains on shares and other securities taxed as shares in later years without any limitation in time.

Taxation of shareholders resident and domiciled outside Sweden

Withholding tax

Shareholders with limited tax liability in Sweden which receive dividends from Swedish companies are generally subject to withholding tax. A redemption of shares whereby the company's equity is reduced is deemed as a dividend and is thus subject to withholding tax. The withholding tax rate is 30 per cent and is levied on the proceeds received on the redemption. The withholding tax is however normally reduced by an applicable tax treaty between Sweden and other countries for the avoidance of double taxation.

Withholding tax is normally withheld by Euroclear or, in case of trustee registered shares, by the trustee. The withholding tax obligation occurs when the proceeds for the Redemption Shares is paid. It should be noted that withholding tax is not levied on a sale of the Redemption Shares before the redemption.

In connection with a redemption, shareholders are entitled to receive a repayment of the withholding tax corresponding to an amount equal to either the cost basis for the Redemption Share or, provided the share is listed, 20 per cent of the proceeds received on the redemption. The cost basis should be calculated in accordance with the principles outlined above under "Receipt of Redemption Shares and allocation of the cost basis". An application for repayment shall be made in writing to the Tax Agency no later than at the end of the fifth calendar year following after the redemption on form SKV 3740 or, if the individual is a resident of Switzerland, SKV 3742.

For corporate shareholders resident and domiciled in the European Economic Area, withholding tax is normally not levied if the shareholder holds more than 10 per cent or more of the capital in the redeeming or distributing company and if certain other requirements are met. Certain foreign UCITS funds and equivalent Swedish special funds, domiciled and resident in the European Economic Area or in country with which Sweden has entered into a tax treaty containing an article on exchange of information or an agreement with exchange of information for tax purposes, are normally not subject to withholding tax in Sweden.

Income tax

Individual shareholders not domiciled or resident in Sweden are normally not taxed in Sweden on a sale of shares. Shareholders may however be subject to tax in the country of residence. In accordance with a specific rule, the so-called ten-year rule (Sw. tioårsregeln), an individual shareholder domiciled and resident outside of Sweden may, under certain circumstances, be taxed to the sale of shares if the person under the calendar year of the sale or at any moment of the past ten years has been resident or have had habitually abode in Sweden. The application of this provision may however be limited by an applicable tax treaty between Sweden and other countries for the avoidance of double taxation.

Corporate shareholders are normally not subject to tax on sale of Swedish shares unless the shares are attributable to a permanent establishment in Sweden.

Cost basis for Redemption Shares — Example

Please note that all amounts in this example are assumed.

Assume that a shareholder holds one share in Tethys Oil with an average cost basis of SEK 40 immediately prior to the split. Furthermore, assume that the lowest quotation the last day of trading of the shares in Tethys Oil before the split and separation of the Redemption Shares is SEK 50, that the Redemption Shares are listed and that the lowest quotation the first day of trading of the Redemption Shares is SEK 3.00.

Furthermore, assume that the Tax Agency in its general recommendation on this basis determines that 6.0 per cent (SEK 3.00 divided with SEK 50) of the cost basis for an original share in Tethys Oil shall be allocated to the Redemption Shares and that 94.0 per cent shall be allocated to the remaining share.

The shareholders' cost basis per Redemption Share then equals SEK 2.40 (6.0 per cent of SEK 40). The remaining share is therefore allocated a cost basis of SEK 37.60 (94.0 per cent of SEK 40).

If the Redemption Shares are disposed (by way of a sale or redemption) for SEK 3.00 per Redemption Share a capital gain of SEK 0.60 (SEK 3.00 — SEK 2.40) arises. If, in the above example, the average cost basis instead is SEK 80, a capital loss will arise at the disposal of the Redemption Share of SEK 1.80 (SEK 3.00 - SEK 4.80).

Questions and answers

What does the share split and redemption procedure imply for me as a shareholder?

Conditional upon the AGM on May 13, 2020 resolving on a share split and redemption of shares in accordance with the Board's proposal, each Share will be split into two shares, one of which will be a Redemption Share which will be automatically redeemed for SEK three (3.00) per Redemption Share.

Why does Tethys Oil propose a share redemption procedure?

Tethys Oil has generated significant cash flows and the Company's financial position is strong. It is therefore the Board's opinion that there is room for an additional cash distribution to the shareholders.

Why is the redemption procedure mandatory?

A mandatory redemption procedure is relatively simple and cost-effective, since it occurs automatically and does not require any action from the shareholders.

As a shareholder, do I need to do anything?

As a shareholder, you will not need to do anything actively. Your Redemption Shares will automatically be redeemed and you will then receive SEK three (3.00) per Redemption Share. If for some reason you do not wish to participate in the share split and mandatory redemption procedure, you must sell your Shares no later than May 19, 2020 or sell your Redemption Shares no later than June 5, 2020.

What are my options in connection with the redemption procedure?

You have two options:

1. Do nothing, and you will then receive SEK three (3.00) per Redemption Share when they are redeemed; or
2. Sell all or a part of your Redemption Shares during the trading period from May 25 up until June 5, 2020. The Redemption Shares will be traded on Nasdaq Stockholm.

Where and when can I trade Redemption Shares?

Redemption Shares will be traded on Nasdaq Stockholm. Trading is expected to occur between May 25 and June 5, 2020.

When and how is the redemption settlement paid?

The redemption settlement will be paid on or about June 12, 2020. Payment will be effected automatically via Euroclear to your yield account.

How many Shares will I have after the redemption procedure?

After redemption has been completed, you will have the same number of Shares in Tethys Oil as you owned before the share split and redemption procedure. This, however, is provided you do not trade any Shares during the period in question.

What are the tax consequences for me as a shareholder at redemption of the Redemption Shares?

Shareholders must report the redemption of the redemption shares in their tax returns as sale of shares, please refer to "Certain Swedish Tax Considerations" on pages 7–10. A capital gain or capital loss is calculated, which means that shareholders may deduct part of the acquisition cost of the original share. Shareholders with a limited tax liability in Sweden who participate in the redemption procedure are normally subject to Swedish withholding tax if their shares are redeemed, please refer to "Certain Swedish Tax Considerations" on pages 7–10.

What are the tax consequences for me as a shareholder upon a sale of the Redemption Shares?

For shareholders who are tax residents in Sweden, the sale of Redemption Shares result in the same tax consequences as redemption of Redemption Shares, see the answer to the previous question. No Swedish withholding tax is due for shareholders with limited tax liability in Sweden if the redemption shares are sold in the market.
